

Update on Coronavirus: Summer Adventure Camp

The emergence of Coronavirus (COVID-19) has proved to be a difficult situation for us all – recreation included. At Farmville Parks & Recreation, we are paying close attention to this situation and are regularly monitoring developments from the CDC, NCDHHS, and other health authorities. The safety and health of campers and staff is always the highest priority at Summer Adventure Camp. With the advancement of the Coronavirus (COVID-19) within the United States, and North Carolina, now provides an excellent time for camps and recreation agencies to update health-related plans and procedures and communicate them with families and staff members.

Coronavirus concerns make planning difficult – for anything. The lack of knowing when we'll reach a new 'normal' – and what it may look like – has left many anxious about planning for summer camps. Although the COVID-19 pandemic has created a rapidly changing situation for parents, Farmville Parks & Recreation has been preparing for the last couple months. As stated earlier, the safety and health of campers and staff is always the highest priority at Summer Adventure Camp.

It is with a heavy heart that we announce the cancellation of Summer Adventure Camp. We know that families and children were counting on Summer Adventure Camp this summer. We want you all to know that, with the cancellation of Summer Adventure Camp, we will present a refund policy that includes a wide variety of options to our families that is designed to offer a return for the full value of your investment in our summer program(s). Summer Adventure Camp is strong – our community is strong. Even as these are difficult days for us all, we are committed to leading Summer Adventure Camp into the future because it is a place where our young people come together to engage through teamwork and friendship.

Many thanks to all of you for your unwavering support as we navigate new territory. Summer Adventure Camp is our passion – and as we move forward as a community, let's do it thoughtfully, carefully, and tactfully. We will always act in the best interests of our families. Maintaining the health and safety of our campers, and staff, is our top priority. We WILL see you again next summer.

From all of us at Farmville Parks & Recreation, we say: Thank you.
